Overhead sectional doors

inter-sectional Glazed & Insulated Sectional Overhead Doors

The inter-sectional door range offers some of the most advanced and most energy efficient sectional door systems on the market.

The inter-sectional door range comes with a wide variety of track systems, mountings, panel options, and panel sidings, light openings, security options, finishings, operating systems and power systems and window models.

The inter-sectional door range also boasts durable quality.

With the inter-sectional door range you can choose between insulated sectional panels or glazed sectional panels depending on the environment and your preference.

inter-sectional Insulated Sectional Overhead Door

inter-sectional Insulated Sectional Overhead Doors are an ideal solution where energy conservation is the determining factor.

Steel sandwich plate panels, 45mm thick, with no cold bridge and foam filled using CFC-Free Polyurethane provide excellent insulation making the perfect solution for the heated operating areas, and therefore indispensable for a pleasant working environment and an economical energy balance.

Properties:

- finger pinch protection
- sturdy panels with high insulation value
- available in RAL and BS colours
- integrated door (optional)
- optional vision panel
- aluminium-coated springs and galvanised steel shaft
- operation by means of pullcord, chain drive or electrical power

inter-sectional Glazed Sectional Overhead Door

inter-sectional Glazed Sectional Overhead Doors have a large window surface area, providing excellent lighting and vision into the building whilst the bottom panel offers stability and protection from damage.

The characteristic profiling of the enviro-sectional panel heightens the buildings appearance and the high light yield creates a pleasant, transparent working environment.

Properties:

- finger pinch protection
- extremely sturdy frame structure
- high quality hardware
- available in virtually all RAL colours (bottom panel and/or glazing frames – optional)
- integrated door (optional)
- aluminium-coated springs and galvanised steel shaft
- operation by means of pullcord, chain drive or electrical power
